

JEROME PLEADS FOR M'CABE IN BRIBERY CASE

Openly Shows His Hand at Metropolitan Hearing in City Court.

PITCHES INTO JULIAN.

Justice Seabury Overrules the District-Attorney's Objections as Immaterial.

Ambrose B. McCabe, trial lawyer in the employ of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, was examined this afternoon before Justice Seabury in Part II. of the City Court, on the charge of bribery.

District-Attorney William Travers Jerome appeared as the prosecuting attorney, and at an early stage in the proceedings indicated a desire for a dropping of the prosecution. Former Appellate Division Justice Edward Hatch appeared for the defendant.

When the proceedings opened Justice Hatch asked for a dismissal on the ground of a lack of jurisdiction. The motion was denied and an exception taken.

The defendant wore a black bow tie and a gray suit. His eye-glasses teetered over his small Roman nose. A group of his friends were in court and

JUDGE O'SULLIVAN GIVES LAW COVERING YELLOW DOG FUND.

"If you find that funds have been so diverted (given to a political party) you will find they have been misappropriated, and to that extent a violation of the law. You must find, however, felonious intent before you may call it crime. You must judge whether there is evidence of intent."

"The Court gives you the law, and you are bound to take it as the Court gives it to you. Trustees of corporation funds have a right to invest them only for financial profit. Had any one a right to expect profit or financial return from such a transaction with a political party?"

"If a person was deprived of his property and the transaction was accounted for falsely, or not at all, or if there were false entries to conceal it, or no entries at all, have you evidence of an intention to defraud? The answer is with you."

"Criminal intent is to take with the intent to deprive or defraud. If you find such officers did so misappropriate property it is your duty to find the crime of larceny has been committed."

—Judge O'Sullivan to the Grand Jury to-day.

were noisy in their conversation as the examination proceeded.

Mr. Jerome began by placing Louis E. Julian on the stand. He showed the witness an affidavit in which he had accused McCabe of bribery and the witness identified it as his. Julian was formerly chief investigator for the Metropolitan Street Railway Company.

Julian's Counsel Objects.

Lawyer Henry Stevenson, as counsel for Julian, objected to the question of Mr. Jerome asking the witness for an identification of some checks which the District-Attorney showed the witness.

Justice Seabury asked Mr. Jerome for his reasons for the production of the checks and Mr. Jerome said that he could not move all his case at once and that he wanted the checks marked for identification.

It proposed to show that this man is unworthy of belief," said Mr. Jerome.
The Court refused to admit the checks. Mr. Jerome pleaded that he did not want to go before the Grand Jury with such a complaining witness.

Mr. Jerome then announced that the prosecution would rest on the affidavit and the witness was turned over to the defense.

Mr. Hatch sought to show that Julian had been in the employ of newspapers.
His cross-examination was an effort to show Julian to be a person of no character.

"We wish to show that the witness was a gambler and race-track follower," said Mr. Hatch.

Not the Question at Issue.

"I don't think that the character of the witness is the issue here," said the Court. "You are getting far away. The main question is whether the conversation alleged in this affidavit took place."

Mr. Jerome took a back seat and the only voice raised in protest to a general assault on the character of the witness was Mr. Stevenson.

Mr. Hatch over and again asked the witness if he had ever gone to the racetrack. Julian said that he had. Mr.
Stevenson again objected, and the Court sustained the objection.

Here Mr. Jerome came out from behind his barricade and openly appeared.
Mr. McCabe, the Metropolitan lawyer.
The District-Attorney argued with the Court that it was proper to let the witness answer the questions. He quoted from a Court of Appeals decision, and when he had expressed his opinion again he retired.

In reply to the question, "Did you use your own or the company's money at the race-tracks?" Julian swore that he used his own money.

RUSSIAN GIRL FACING DEATH IS DEFIANT.

MOSCOW, March 26.—M. Teslinko, counsel for Mile. Spiridonova, the seventeen-year-old girl who shot M. Luzhnevskiy, chief of the secret police at Tsimburt, has returned here from Leningrad, where his client was found guilty of the charges brought against her.
He gives a thrilling account of her spirited speech to the judges who condemned her, telling them that the victory of the oppressors of the people would be short lived. She added:
"You can kill me, but death will be welcome after what I have suffered."

There shall be a rest of fifteen minutes between each fall.

SIX INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Fire in Carriage That Was Smashed on Prospect Park Drive.

Five persons were thrown out of a carriage in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon in a collision with an automobile owned by John Carlson, of No. 225 Ninth street, and Forty-fifth street. The auto was speeding along the East Drive when the carriage, owned and driven by Thomas McGuire, of No. 225 Ninth street, came from the opposite direction. Carlson's machine swerved to one side, striking the carriage and upsetting the occupants.

With Mr. McGuire in the carriage were his wife and two children, and Tessie Manson, twenty-five years old, of No. 487 Hancock street. All were thrown into the roadway. Carlson was also knocked from the seat of his automobile. After the excitement incidental to the collision was over, it was found that no one had been injured beyond a few bruises.

A few minutes before the accident occurred Carlson had his face badly lacerated while fixing his machine.
After having his injuries dressed by an ambulance surgeon he mounted his machine and started for home. He got along all right until he collided with Mr. McGuire's carriage. Upon McGuire's complaint he was arrested and taken to the Litchfield mansion, where he was later admitted to bail.
